REVOLUTIONARY CLOSED-LOOP HEAT EXCHANGE SYSTEM

Using a closed-loop heat exchange system, the Beko Heat Pump Dryer uses lower temperatures to dry your laundry, saving you money on energy bills and dramatically reducing wear and tear on clothing. Beko's heat pump technology pumps warm dry air into the drum to mix with moisture-laden laundry. The moist air leaves the drum, passing through the evaporator where air is cooled and loses its humidity. The remaining air is reheated in the condenser (heat pump) through the exchange of compressed coolant and sent back to the drum to continue the drying process.
